Yesterday's Chicago Market

United States 1,70,000 bushele. The entire world shipmen's were said to be 10,000,000 bushels. The rest of the debuis were not A. H. Parmin wired Prench: For about on of decilies in prices made by seining of those who held their wheat too long of who get too bearish after an 5 cent deciline and buy some wheat.

Some short interest was created on the decilie in wheat, says a Chicago market decilie in wheat, says a Chicago market seems of the any good money was been so long since any good money was made on the selling side that bears regard made on the selling side that bears regard made on the selling side that bears regard made on the short side. But that kept a good many others out. From being a tradeer everybody sell anxions to follow the "plinger" is now eyed as a "hoodoo" to secrybody class on his side. Linn keeps cautionally working the short side, but for keeping wrong for 20 a bushel he has haff but his prestige. His old admirers are of the opinion that like Parifrigue he is not the true speculator, the main to play either while the greatest of the main to play either true speculator, the main to play either while the significant of short sales as all the other climeats in the market. So far as the speculative influences are converted, the war-house efforts to break prices have probably counted as much as any. They keep selling the September in the hope that July will take a slide and permit a churney-at a good spread. They don't get far from a bare, though. This matter of the July delivery is as much talked as anything slee now. It is not easy to decide how it will affect prices, there being many considerations involved. As the winter wheat prospect very good, the selling pressure should be upon the September rather than upon the July, and for the spring wheat proper the selling pressure should be upon the September afters than upon the July, and for the spring wheat proper than the home requirements, there should be a considerable selling pressure on the new spring wheat crop
